

Other things happen for a reason, too

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20060306-13

March 6, 2006

Raymond Chen

Today's theme is a quick one: Other Microsofties explain what at first appear to be puzzling decisions.

- Peter Torr explains why the anti-phishing filter operates on the original URL instead of a hash.
- Jamie Buckley from the MSN Search team explains why not every possible instant answer is offered.

Raymond Chen

Follow

