Four years ago, Troy Kleweno spotted Christine Hsieh on the 308 bus. He saw her twice a day, once in the morning on the way to work, and again in the evening on the way home. His co-workers teased him about the “bus girl” he pined after for six months before he finally said hello. That led to a date, and soon they were a couple.

It’s only fitting then that when Troy decided that it was time to propose marriage, that he do it on the 308 bus. Watch it here.

Happy Valentine’s Day, everybody.
