

A puzzle: Why are so many fake LiveJournal blogs written by 29-year-olds?

 devblogs.microsoft.com/oldnewthing/20090507-01

May 7, 2009

Raymond Chen

NPR's All Tech Considered blog notices a huge spike of LiveJournal users who claim to be 29 years old. They conclude (almost certainly correctly) that these are all fake journals created by spam bots. But why 29 years old?

One possible answer.

Raymond Chen

Follow

